I'm a student learning the Python programming language. I would like to get some programming excercises.
I'm not good with string manipulations. Please generate a task that I can use to practice. Don't provide the solution.

Prompt:

Create a Python program that takes a user-inputted sentence and does the following:

1. Reverses the order of the words in the sentence.
2. Capitalizes the first letter of each word.
3. Removes all punctuation (e.g., commas, periods, question marks).

Example:

- Input: "Hello, world! This is a test."
- Output: "Test Is A This World Hello"
